With its colorful flora, Ohio Northern is well-known for its beautiful landscaping. These vivid flowers provide a cheerful greeting to visitors entering campus.

Having made a new circle of friends, these freshmen have fun participating in the PlayFair activities. PlayFair is one of the initial ways the new students meet other freshmen before classes start.

One of the biggest perks as an RA is that of making new friends. Stambaugh Hall RA and sophomore communication arts major Stephanie Bear said, "People that I thought I'd never come into contact with are now my roommates. The best of working together, best programs, as a section leader. Their likes, laughs and friendships make the tough parts of being an RA worth it."

According to Park Hall House Resident Jim Cornett, senior ecology major, another perk is sharing the opportunity to see some of your residents grow with maturity. "We're always a little rougher as RAs, or even later, you can see how your residents have matured and what they have accomplished. Often you know that as a lot of work developing programs that people want to come to and that they get a good turnout. People do not show up, but when a lot of people participate in a program. "I've seen a group," said Northern House RA and sophomore mechanical engineering major Scott Dusenbury.

Along with the many perks, the RAs are faced with trying to provide entertaining programs for campus students

Some of the students who are preparing their own meals for themselves can be an advantage or disadvantage for students living off campus.

a daily basis. They also do not have maintenance to fix problems in the rooms and mow their lawns. Furthermore, off-campus students must buy their own food and cook their own meals. Although houses and apartments may initially appear to be a better deal, many students also find themselves spending more money for things that were covered in residence hall costs, such as cable TV.

Although living off-campus comes with more responsibility, for most students

Beach volleyball, midnight football, and ping-pong are not typical activities that come to mind when one thinks about life in a residence hall. However, these activities and more take place throughout the school year. A residence hall is not only a place to study and sleep, but also a place to spend free time in various creative activities and activities.

After long evenings of studying and homework, students often find stress relief in playing long, competitive table tennis tournaments. Luckily for these students, ping-pong tables can be found in every residence hall complex on campus, along with the paddles. And since a ping-pong table is available at the desk, residents of Park Hall can also enjoy some relaxation by lounging in front of the large screen television in Park Hall's mini-movie theater. Others enjoy staying in their room, watching television or listening to music.

Of course, activities for students living in the residence hall is does not always mean staying in the halls. In many instances, resident assistants organize tournaments and activities for their residents.

For example, Magson Hall RA Rob Sherburne, junior education major, invites his residents and friends out to play "midnight football" every Tuesday. "I really enjoy participating with our residents on Tuesday Night Football. We have a great time, and everyone has a blast," commented Sherburne.

Several Christian groups on campus experienced an increase in membership. What is the best way for organizations to make some money on a college campus? Do fundraisers of course! From shaving a professor's head and dressing a professor in silly clothes, to door-to-door bake sales and sing-a-thons, Ohio Northern organizations never slack when it comes to year to benefit our national philanthropy, C ASA (Court Appointed Special Advocates). Our two biggest fundraisers for C ASA are our Mr. ONL pageant and Theta Twister. These events are tons of fun for everyone and typically earn several hundred dollars to be sent directly to our philanthropy."

Another popular fundraiser on campus was the making money.

While some organizations made money to help fund a trip or pay day-to-day expenses, others donated their funds to a given charity or philanthropy. Regardless of where the money went, it was always well spent and well earned. Most importantly, everyone always had a great deal of fun while "raking in the dough." For example, senior communications major Christie McConnell of Alpha Xi Delta said, "We do at least one fundraising event a quarter to benefit our philanthropy. Choose children, and throughout the year we contribute to other organizations. Fundraisers, but the most enjoyable of all is fundraising for Fuzzie Football." Additionally, sophomore middle childhood education major Sarah Yowell, Vice President of Personal Relations for Kappa Alpha Theta, said, "As a sorority, we participate in several service projects throughout the yearly Sing-a-Thon to help benefit the March of Dimes. Organized by Kappa Phi Epsilon, their goal was to get each and every organization on campus involved and have people singing in half-hour intervals for a twenty-four hour period. "Every year we have a great time and enjoy staying up all night with friends," said senior professional writing major Katie Holson of Kappa Phi.

So, regardless of the method of getting there, not only was a great deal of money made to benefit various organizations, but also everyone had fun. Perfectly said by senior journalism major Tiffany Courtney, President of Sigma Iota Delta: "Not only are fundraisers successful, but they were also a great way for a group to work together towards a common goal and have a good time at the same time."

including the University Singers and Habitat for Humanity, traveled throughout the country to work as well as to play. There were also several athletic competitions for women and men's tennis, men's baseball and women's softball.

The University Singers spent their spring break on tour as they gave performances in Kentucky, Tennessee, Georgia and Florida, as well as Ohio. The singers' group included a 64-voice choir and 25-piece orchestra under the direction of Dennis Krutzer. In addition to performing, the group was able to spend some time at Disney World while in Florida. According to senior biology major Laurie Harmon, "My favorite thing about the trip was meeting new people and seeing different parts of the country. It was a good free vacation."

Residence Life brought many opportunities for students to have fun and serve the community throughout the year. Every residence hall sponsored its own unique event.

Founders Hall kicked off the Residence Life festivities for the year with its annual Mud Volleyball Tournament.

During the winter months, Residence Life brightened up students' lives with Maglott Hall's Survivor, which was modeled after the popular reality show. Survivor allowed students to compete physically and mentally for a cash prize. Lima West also sponsored its annual Polar Bowl in which students formed co-ed teams and braved the cold in order to compete in a football tournament. Lima

Later in the month, SLP and Northern House sponsored a game of bingo and gave out prizes to the winners. Halloween was celebrated with Clark Hall's Trick-or-Treat. This program allowed children from the surrounding communities to visit the ONSL residence halls for their treats. In addition to passing out candy, many students dressed up in costumes and decorated their halls for the occasion.

Worship Design Team

Contingency plan is a thing. Jerome Weaver, Jarrett Dickey, Andrew Schrum and Jeff Meyer can't imagine a Texas Hold 'Em. Many late nights in Roberts Hall, a 200-point poker game, with a few beers, etc.

Trying to think when pulled had Webb Drew Hedderman and Kevin Deily from their 2007 season in Houston. "I'm not a fan of the street," says Hedderman. "I'm not a fan of the street." Hedderman is a permanent business teacher in the new CN. Hedderman is a will start his own business. Kevin Hedderman is a teacher.

After six years, Scott White, Andrew Schrum and Jeff Jewell are breathing. The short "it is" and "it is not" are "it is" but "it is not" are "it is" for CN monitor bugs.

Working on the CNL isn't always as advantageous as it can be, especially when you're working throughout the week. But it has been helpful in the long run, especially in the execution of the work.

Entertaining the scenery, Nick Yodice gives Carissa Kaufman a ride on a horse. A few CNL students took a trip to the University of Pittsburgh where they stopped at this national park.

It's a 'Burgh thing! Representing about six different high schools in the Pittsburgh area, this group is proud of their common bond.

What are we gonna do when it's over? The question comes what they're gonna do when they return to Pittsburgh, PA. The decision was unanimous to check out a Bucs game and grab some Primanti's.

Welcoming the new starters, Alexis Crowell and Stephanie Spirey are all smiles knowing their friends Jenna Spencer and Jan Legend will soon be moving to Pittsburgh. This group of graduating seniors was glad to find out that they have more opportunities to spend time together living in the same area.

The fun is back in the Steeler Room now. Eating food comes so naturally for these folks. The party took place in Clark Hall to celebrate the culture of Pittsburgh and to welcome some incoming 'Burghers.

When not engineering, the little senior mechanical engineer Tim "Turbo" Sealife performs in the jazz band. While his calculator may be his instrument of choice in the classroom, the trombone is the instrument of choice on stage.

Students can witness a beautiful sight in the Northern Denali area at the same time. Winters this year dumped enough snow to took a week of 60 degree days to melt most of it. Parkas are especially popular around this time.

After spending four years photographing Dr. and Mrs. Baker for the yearbook, senior mechanical engineering student and yearbook editor Nathan Gabriel finally gets his picture taken with them.

Students will be amazed at the talent of a senior student. Ethan Miller thrills the audience with his lip syncing abilities and great facial expressions. Ethan was performing during the talent show on Habual's spring break trip to Okla. State.

During a working session, Roxanne Weaver proofreads the names from the organizational photographs. This was just one of the many jobs the staff worked on at the annual pizza dinner lock-in.

The production of the Northern Yearbook is truly a yearlong process. From the brainstorming in the summer to the final proofing the following summer, the yearbook becomes a reality only through the intense creativity of a special group of dedicated individuals.

Copy editor Roxanne Weaver and her staff had the task of writing all the articles for each spread. The Northern Yearbook gave these writers the opportunity to be creative and talk to students about life at Ohio Northern. Our staff of writers included Jennifer Asimakopoulou, Jennifer Smith, Mandy Willey, Jen Vandever, Meredith VanDyck and Lisa Williams.

The Yearbook Staff

Design editor Katie Schott spent countless hours designing the layout and overall identity of the book, creating spreads, editing pictures and organizing and training her staff. Even though the basic layout of the spreads were consistent, designers still had a lot of room for creativity. The 2003 design team consisted of Hri Howshier, Andrew Brown, Kellie Chenault, Jes Crews and Lisa Hiles.

Using his deep understanding of the camera, photography editor Nathan Gabriel traversed the campus the entire year photographing campus events and student life. His staff shared this responsibility of recording the ONU experience. Photographers this year were Stephanie Creekpauw, Christa Glover, Amanda Lake, Andrew Schram and Kevin Sterling.

Ashley Dally

Business editor Angela Swiergoz had the enormous job of organizing the distribution of the yearbooks to the ONU community. Angela was an essential all-purpose worker for the yearbook.

Editor-in-chief Ashley Dally spent the year trying her best to maintain staff enthusiasm and keep everything on schedule while also designing spreads, proofing pages and leading meetings. Advisor Melanie Can Woods also helped the staff keep its focus throughout the year.

The most important people involved with this book, however, are the students, faculty and staff of Ohio Northern University. The Northern Yearbook is only possible through the incredible involvement of the ONU community.

Showing off their choreographed routine, the Sisters of Alpha Xi Delta danced to the music. They were also singing a modified version of the song "Free Your Mind."

April 22 began the week sorority and fraternity members anticipated all year—Greek Week. The week began with Greek Sing, held in King Horn, and the water games were on Wednesday.

Thursday's festivity was the Match Game in the ballroom. "Each fraternity and the teams were of four people, but the whole Chapter could yell out answers so, basically, everyone was a part of the action."

sorority had four people on a team and it was basically just a guessing game," said Kristin Stiner, sophomore communications arts major and a member of Kappa Alpha Theta. "I enjoyed it because it got some of the faculty and staff involved, and we all had a blast trying to guess their answers. Also,

Week winners Phi Delta Chi also brought home Outstanding Greek Chapter of the Year honors, along with Delta Zeta on the women's side. Alpha Xi Delta's John Amos, senior sociology major, was named the Outstanding Greek Women of the Year, while PFC Chester Kaczor, member of Phi Delta Chi, was named Outstanding Greek Male.

Cheering each other on is a big part of Greek Week. Each group has a captain and a cheering squad. A lot of people in the audience also get engaged in the fun, competing in the different games and having a good time.

Really getting into the act, the brothers of the Phi Kappa Theta fraternity show their spirit as they transform a popular country song into one honoring Greek life at UNC. The Greek Sing event is one of the most popular of the week, where all the fraternities and sororities compete with their musical talents.

Club sports at ONU include men's volleyball, men's and women's water polo, men's and women's rugby, and Ultimate Frisbee.

Rugby is practiced two times a week, with the experience necessary to join the team. Water polo is a game of endurance, as the seven players are not permitted to touch the bottom of the pool. The goal of water polo is to score against the opponent's goal.

In an attempt to provide even more enthusiasm and school spirit, the ONU cheerleaders plan on switching to only one varsity squad, instead of varsity and junior varsity, for the 2000-2001 school

Through both the winter and basketball seasons, the cheerleaders were able to pump up the crowd and support the team during both wins and losses. Without them, the game would lack the enthusiasm and spirit the cheerleaders bring to the Polar Bears.

Teamwork is an important aspect of cheerleading. "We have to work together and be a team. We can't just ask the other cheerleaders to do things for us. Senior Jackie Dight (Weirton, W. Va. Weir) earned All-American status from her finish as the national runner-up in the women's 400-meter hurdles at the NCAA Division III Outdoor Track & Field Championships. Dight entered the meet as the top seed, leading the nation by 1.56 seconds in the event qualifying automatically with a time of 59.3...and in the meet she ran a 59.56, the second fastest time of her career.

"I'm disappointed that I didn't win, but I ran pretty well," Dight said. "I really wanted to finish in the top two to get on OAC's Wall of Champions. That was my goal the entire season. There were some things I could have done better today, but I ran a pretty good time considering the conditions."

"I'm so proud of what Jackie accomplished in her career," OAC head coach Brian Cole said. "She ran a solid race and made Hicks beat her. I think the way she did in a steady rain was impressive. Give Hicks credit, she just ran a great race today."

Dight is a five-time All-American in the hurdle events. She is a three-time All-American in the 400 hurdles, finishing third last year and was seventh as a sophomore in 2001. She also finished fifth in the 55-meter hurdles each of the past two seasons at the NCAA Indoor Championships. She has won a school record 17 OAC Championships in the hurdle, sprint and relay events and has earned All-Conference accolades 17 times during her career, and she owns or shares eight school records.

This year Dight was named the OAC Indoor Track Athlete of the Year for the second consecutive season after winning three events and earning All-OAC accolades five times at the OAC Indoor Championships. Dight also won three OAC Outdoor Championships, earned All-Conference accolades in four events and was named the OAC Outdoor Track Athlete of the Year. Dight was named the Great Lakes Region Athlete of the Year for the second consecutive season, and was Ohio Northern's female civic awards winner this year for the school's top senior woman student athlete and was a Second Team Academic All-OAC honoree.

Actress Halle Berry and actor Pierce Brosnan arrive for the world premiere of the new James Bond film The Tomorrow Day, which was attended by Britain's Queen Elizabeth II, at the Royal Albert Hall in London.

US. pop star Michael Jackson dangles an unidentified child, its head hidden by a towel, over a balcony of the Adlon Hotel in Berlin, Jackson, in Germany, to attend an awards ceremony, had been waylaid by two German fans, when he brought the baby out onto the balcony.

The Bahamas-registered Prestige oil tanker is seen broken in two before sinking into the Atlantic Ocean Nov. 9, 2002. The stricken tanker carrying 77,000 metric tons (20.5 million gallons) was towed some 744 kilometers (463 miles) off the coast when it sank.

Space Shuttle Columbia crew David Brown, Rick Husband, Laurel Clark, Kayenna Chawla, Michael Anderson, William McCool and Israeli astronaut Ilan Ramon are shown in this crew photo. NASA feared the worst after losing communication with space shuttle Columbia as the ship soared over Texas several minutes before its expected landing on Feb. 1, 2003.

Buses coming from North Korea pass by guarding South Korean soldiers at the demilitarized zone in Kaesong, a town in South Korea's east coast. More than 100 South Koreans traveled to North Korea in bus to mark the opening of a newly built overland route linking the rival states, despite the current nuclear standoff on the Korean peninsula.

Soldiers of 1st Brigade, 101st Airborne Division (Air Assault), mourn the loss of Capt. Christopher Seifert at a memorial ceremony at Camp Pennsylvania in Kuwait. Seifert was killed when a grenade was thrown into a sleep tent early Sunday morning by a fellow U.S. soldier. The attack left 15 other soldiers wounded.

The Northern Yearbook would not have been possible without the wonderful support of the Ohio Northern community. There are many people, named and unnamed, who deserve a big thank you.

First, I would like to thank my editorial staff for working so hard this year.

Individual portrait pictures days are another busy time for the yearbook staff. I would like to thank Mr. Bob Beer and Mr. Butch West for providing the student information necessary for these pictures. Thanks also to Jim McAdams for his photography services.

Between the Lines

I wish seniors Katie Schott, Nathan Gabriel and Roxanne Weaver the best of luck after graduation. I am looking forward to having Angela Swiergosz return to duty in 2004. Thanks also to the general yearbook staff for all your hours of hard work. I would like to thank Melanie Caw Woods for her patience with me this year as I learned my new position.

Steve Mankey and his staff deserve a huge thank you for their help with distribution in the fall. They helped us deliver books and allowed us to store the extras in their warehouse. You made a difficult time go smoothy, and we appreciate your help.

Ashley Dally

us this year by providing a wider range of pictures when we needed them. I would especially like to thank John Holinka and Tim Glon for their help with team photos and sports pictures. Also, thanks to Tom Simmons and the coaches for their prompt help with the team photo individual names.

Thank you to Will Spence, our Herff-Jones representative, for your guidance this year.

Finally, thank you to everyone not mentioned who helped us by writing an article or providing a picture. This book is for everyone at Ohio Northern. Please enjoy it, and remember to "read between the lines."
